Understanding Coverage Choices

Below are general descriptions of types of insurance coverages. You'll want to consult your policy for terms, conditions and limits of your own insurance coverages.

Auto Insurance

Bodily Injury Liability - Helps protect you from paying medical costs, loss of income and funeral expenses of other people involved in an accident.

Property Damage Liability - Helps protect you from paying for the repair or replacement of another driver's car.

Uninsured/Underinsured Motorist Bodily Injury - Provides coverage if you or passengers in your vehicle get injured from an accident caused by a driver without insurance. It also applies to injuries resulting from underinsured drivers where your damages are higher than the liability insurance limits of the driver causing the accident. Uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage limits cannot be stacked or aggregated (combined between vehicles or policies).

Accident Forgiveness - Helps keep your rates from going up just because of an accident—even if it's your fault. We'll waive one at-fault accident every 3 years

Personal injury protection (PIP) - The insurance that is designed to provide compensation for injuries sustained by an automobile accident victim, regardless of any negligence issue arising from the accident.

Medical Payments - Can help pay for some of your medical costs or funeral expenses if you or anyone in your vehicle is injured in a covered accident.

Collision - Pays for damage to your car if you collide with another car or something else such a building, bridge or tree. If someone hits your parked car, this is considered a collision as well.

Comprehensive - This covers damage caused by something other than a collision, like theft, fire, windstorm or hitting an animal.

Personal Effects - Insurance could help pay for things in your car that get stolen or damaged in an accident, like your laptop, golf clubs, gym gear and other items. This could also help pay for injuries to your pet from a vehicle accident.

Custom Equipment - Pays to repair or replace your car's custom equipment or custom sound system if they're damaged or stolen. Custom equipment may also include things like special carpeting, height-extending roofs, lighting or after-market.

Uninsured Motorists Property Damage - Helps pay for damages to your vehicle, if the person who caused the auto accident does not have insurance.

Transportation Expense - Pays for a rental car, rideshare or other transportation while your car is being repaired.

Homeowners Insurance

Dwelling Protection - Covers your home's physical structure and anything built into it (like an attached garage, deck, kitchen cabinets, and flooring).

Family Liability - This helps out when you're responsible for someone else's injuries or for damage to their stuff.

Guest Medical - This kicks in if someone's injured at your home, and you're responsible for their medical expenses.

Personal Property Protection - For when your stuff gets stolen or damaged by a covered incident, whether at home or away.

Personal Property Reimbursement - This determines how you are reimbursed for your belongings in the event of a covered loss.

Additional Living Expense - Helps pay for your increased living costs if a covered event makes your home uninhabitable.

Other Structures - Covers structures not directly attached to your home, such as sheds or detached garages.

Water Backup - Protects your property in the event of accidental water damage from backups through sewers and drains, or overflows from sump pumps.

Service lines - This covers you if a service or utility line leading to your home ruptures, leaks, collapses, tears, or breaks and it's your responsibility (not your municipality's) to have it fixed.

Building Codes - Protects your home in the event of a covered incident where the cost to repair or rebuild is much higher, due to updated local ordinance laws that must be enforced.
